Behold the Power of the Word to Save

Kelly Needham

1. When was the last time you were able to share the gospel with someone who isn't a Christian?
2. Do you truly believe the gospel is powerful on its own, or do you feel like you need your own wisdom, eloquence, or preparation to make it effective?
3. Are there people in your life that you've assumed are "too hard" to reach with the gospel? What might happen if you trusted God's power instead of your assumptions?
4. How do you usually respond when the gospel offends someone? Do you avoid sharing it to prevent awkwardness?
5. Have you ever told yourself, "I'm not the right person to share this"? How does God's Word challenge that lie?
6. What gifts, weaknesses, or ordinary circumstances might God want to use in your life for His glory?
7. How does your own story of coming to Christ shape the way you share the gospel with others?
8. Who in your life could you intentionally pray for and seek an opportunity to share the hope of Christ with this week?
